The bankrupt was adjudicated on a creditor's petition on 28th October, 1889. He filed a schedule shewing subsequently set aside. The furniture realised $3,165,10. The first and adjourned first meeting of creditors was held on the 13th, 20th and 27th November and 4th December, 1889, and a Mr Michael was appointed to help the Bankrupt to make up his 12 months' accounts. A mass of memoranda, chiefly brokers' notes, papers were handed over to Mr Michael, and after 8 months' labour, and at an expense of $800 to the eveditors. Michael susmitted a report and certain schedules shewing something of the deatings of the bankrupt. From Mr Michael's report and that of the official assignee, it appears that at the beginning of November. 888, the Bankrupt started share operations on a large scale, nearly all time bargains for months ahead, being then in dobt, and that his purchases of shares according to the brokers notes in the Bankrunt's possession amounted to $2,895,933 50, but according to the brokers' statements $4,244,700,965. This report is Mr Michael was road at an adjourned meeting of creditors and both he and the bankrupt were present. It was a document most unfavourable to the bankrupt-for it expressed his disapproval of the way in which the tankrupt carried on a gigantic business without keeping any accounts or even momeranda from which accounts of any kind could be satisfactorily compiled. It stated that it was impossible for any one to make up any accounts from the materials at his disposal 'even when supplemented by the written statement I have made from the brokers. Neither is it possible to shew whether at the day of his bank ruptcy the bunkrupt had any shares still in his possession as long as the sum 2264,084 45 paid into the Bank by him in bank notes remains unaccounted for. There are two ways in which losses can come upon the market; one is the acute form of panic, the other is the watered form, dullness, lack of speculation and distrust. As I said before, the losses are already known, and, in most cases, already paid. One of the good results of the syndicates, trust companies and the like is to divide losses among the

SENSATIONAL STORY ABOUT EMPEROR

WILLIAM'S HEALTH, Paris, August 9.- The Gaulois publishes to-day a dispatch from Berlin which has attracted so much attention that Eclair reproduces it in a special edition. I have no better means of knowing the trustworthiness of the news than you have in Now York. I send it only for what it is worth on the Gaulois' authority. The dispatch printed by the Gaulois is as follows : Berlin, August 9 .- William II arrived to-day at Kiel on board the Hohensollern, which at present he is unable to leave. The Emperor's condition is much more grave then has been admitted, for not only does he suffer from his knee joint and his ear trouble, but terribly severe rheumatic pains absolutely nail him down to his chair and will compel him to remain utterly inactive for at least a fortnight without the least prospect of stirring. Doctors, while stating that the slarwing news which has been circulated is exaggerated, say that if the Emperor continues to refuse to submit himself to the treatment prescribed his rheumatism must soon assume a more serious aspect and attack the heart. For the moment he is quite unable to undertake any work, and it is thought that his stay at Kiel may benefit him if he keeps to the regimen laid down. But they fear that his ardent temperament will not resign itself to the suferced repose.

There is much anxiety as to the condition of the Emperor, and unessiness is felt as to what will be the outcome should his disease have a fatal ending. These reports are all the more reasonable as the Emperor does not husband his resources and will sprely continue his series of fatiguing journevs and duties as soon as the first sign of improvement begins to be felt.

If William II, were to die, said Herr Miguel, the German Minister of Finance. Germany would be in a most unenvisble position. The crown would revert to a child 7 years old and the nation would have to appoint as regent Prince Heary of Henry is a sailor, however, and his friends are only sailors and scarculy known to the public. His hand could not for a moment hold the mane of the German lien.' His reply to some one who mentioned the name of Bismarck was: How little is known of the real Bismarck. To recall him to Berlin would be simple madness. Bismarck is in truth very old, and the deprivation of power has broken him so that there cannot be imagined a mure painful position than his present one. Speaking less than ever and fiving into a passion at the veriest trifles, and making his unbearable to those who surround him, Bismarck is done, and it is not on him we must count hereafter in our hours of trial. The worst of it is that it is almost impossible to say on whom we could count in such a case, and further, it is precisely this which makes the present position of the empire so pre-

Carlous. The above conversation, as repeated

Here is the other side of the question Others say that in the event of Henry of Prussia becoming regent his first step would be to reinstate Prince Bismarck in the Chancellorship, In fact, Prince Henry half a million pounds, although there is a is one of the most ardent admirers of the ex-Chancellor, whose regall would, in addition, be insisted upon by the Garmans. who would consider the unity of the empire at stake if its founder did not come to the rescue.

Now. Bismarck's first act would be to bring about a reconciliation between Germany and Russis. On the other hand he the man who would in any way diminish

It is an absolute fact that the Emperor cried with pain when he was moved, that England by creating a panic. This was his ear trouble is increasing and causes frequent epileptic fits, which are recurring with shorter intervals and greater inmel and Russia could not bring about a tensity than ever before, so that most serious apprehensions are entertained as to the result throughout the German
